

The Alan M. Voorhees Transportation Center and the Edward J. Bloustein School of Planning and Public Policy present

THE ALAN M. VOORHEES DISTINGUISHED LECTURE

Tuesday, December 9, 2014, 5:00 p.m.

Special Events Forum, Civic Square Building

Transportation in the New Economy

Harriet Tregoning
Director, Office of Economic Resilience,
U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development

Harriet Tregoning is the director of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development's (HUD) Office of Economic Resilience and has extensive experience on the local, state and national levels helping communities and regions build diverse, prosperous, and resilient economies. As the recent director of the District of Columbia's Office of Planning, Tregoning worked to make DC a walkable, bikeable, livable, globally competitive and sustainable city. She was previously the co-founder of the Governors' Institute on Community Design, and also served as both Maryland's Secretary of Planning and then as the nation's first state-level Cabinet Secretary for Smart Growth. Prior to her tenure in Maryland state government, Tregoning was the director of Development, Community and Environment at the United States Environmental Protection Agency. Tregoning's academic training is in engineering and public policy. She was a Loeb Fellow at the Harvard University Graduate School of Design for 2003-2004.

Ms. Tregoning's lecture will focus on the changing demographic makeup of metropolitan regions and the nexus between transportation, land use, economic competitiveness & diversity.

A reception will follow the lecture. Please RSVP by Wednesday, December 3 to Stephanie Kose by phone at 848-932-2832 or by e-mail to kose@ejb.rutgers.edu.

The Alan M. Voorhees Transportation Center is a national leader in the research and development of innovative transportation policy. Located within the Edward J. Bloustein School of Planning and Public Policy at Rutgers University, the Center brings to bear the full array of resources of a major research university on transportation issues of regional and national significance. The Bloustein School has established national and international reputations for excellence in educational and research programs in the areas of urban planning, urban studies, public health, and public policy.

For more information and directions visit

vtc.rutgers.edu

RUTGERS

Edward J. Bloustein School of Planning and Public Policy